Shahryar Nashat

The body is both physical and spectral in Shahryar Nashat's multitextural universe. When absent, the human form fuels a yearning, a wet and soft urgency for what could have been. Other times, the artist renders corporality unmissable, as immediate as a bag of urine or a painting of a boyfriend's rib cage. Throughout, the enigma of eroticism is unconditional in the Los Angeles-based, Swiss-born artist's precise take on the body. Undulating between the unseen as well as the obvious, Nashat creates sculptures, films, prints, and architectural interventions that are infatuated by what they hide from the viewer.
